

ABSTRACT

A method for marketing real estate includes classifying the real estate for sale, photoing the real estate for sale, and establishing a data base with the photos of the real estate for sale for searching purposes. The buyers may obtain the required information or photos or recorded tapes via the internet system and with the personal computer, without going out to see every interesting buildings or houses.

10 The maps or the quotations or the nearby streets around the real estate for sale may further be photoed or tape recorded or supplied in the internet system.